Hundreds of Mothers and Wives Entertain Hopes for Entombed Men

Of the 310 Miners Entrapped by the Fire, 189 Are Yet to be Accounted for.

Strong Belief Manifested that Some of the Men are Still Alive as Air Has Been Found in the Galleries.

By Associated Press
CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 22.—Great excitement prevailed this afternoon when it was rumored that a live man had been found in a heap of dead who had been brought to the surface. The body was hurried to physicians, who pronounced it dead, and said the man had probably not been dead over twelve hours. The body was still warm, which led to the belief that there was still life. Wild scenes followed the carrying of the body to the hospital. "They are alive!" came the cry from every side, and the rush of people almost carried the bearers of the stretcher off their feet. The guards held the crowds back while the work of carrying out the dead continued. Before the last of the 42 bodies were hoisted, the body of the man who at first was supposed to be alive, was sadly placed beside his comrades.

The situation to date shows the number trapped in the mine to have been 310; rescued alive, 20; bodies recovered today, 42; bodies recovered previously, 59; unaccounted for, 189.

A strong belief that the men are still alive in the mine led to attempts to penetrate the third level, where air was found in the east workings. The rescuing force broke through a fall of earth and found a tool closet filled with picks but no dinner buckets, indicating that the men had penetrated to the recesses and were now making a fight for life in the furthest galleries of the mine.

Of the 42 bodies recovered today, two were trapper boys not yet 14 years old. Identification of the bodies was easy, as none were burned, though some had torn almost all their clothing off, due presumably to the heat.

A hundred women stood in a rain and sleet storm watching the pit in hopes that some might be brought up alive.

DESIGNS APPROVED FOR NEW POST CARDS

On the ordinary card, the head of the late President McKinley will appear, as now but a much better likeness of the martyred president has been selected.

On the small card, intended for index purposes and for social correspondence, a likeness of President Lincoln will appear.

A novel and pleasing innovation has been made for the reply postal card. On the first half will appear a portrait of George Washington, while the stamp on the second, or reply half, will be a likeness of Martha Washington.

WAS PUGILISTIC FATHER OF THE EX-BOILERMAKER

Special to the Bonanza
SPOKANE, Nov. 22.—"Jeffries will give Johnson a worse beating than he did that boy from whom he won his first fight down in Los Angeles in 1887, when he scored in three rounds and carried home a purse of $7.50. His next fight may take longer, but it will net him ten thousand times more money."

This is the opinion of John Webb, a business man of Spokane, until recently of Butte and before that a resident of Los Angeles, who claims to be the pugilistic father of the ex-boilermaker.

"Jeff demurred at first when we invited him to the boxing club for a try-out with some of the boys," Webb continued, "but he was finally prevailed upon for a 'go' and won easily. He put his opponent out in short order in the second fight, and it took more than ten minutes to revive the loser. His work became the talk of the town and soon got to the boy's family, who, though poor, were proud, and did not relish the idea of developing a fighter."

"One of his sisters, now married to a business man of Los Angeles, came to my store a short time after the second fight, and drove me out of the back door with a broom, saying that her family resented our activities in trying to make a pugilist out of the boy. But when we became better acquainted there was many a hearty laugh over our first meeting."

"When Corbett and Fitzsimmons were matched, Jeff was taken on as a sparring partner by the former on my recommendation. In the first round Jeff knocked Corbett down and then jumped through the ropes, saying he might kill the champion."

EXPERT TESTIMONY AT TRIAL OF ALMA BELL FAVORS DEFENDANT

School Boy Commits Perjury in Order to Aid Girl Accused of Slaying Lover.

By Associated Press
AUBURN, Nov. 22.—Expert testimony introduced today favored Alma Bell. Four doctors answered a hypothetical question as to the probable insanity of the girl at the time of the shooting affirmatively.

The prosecution later put on witnesses who declared that if the girl had been insane she would have forgotten the details which took place at the time.

The testimony of J. E. Richardson, a school boy, who said Armes told him he was engaged to Alma Bell, was impeached by his school teacher, Miss M. G. Granger, who said the boy was at home and could not have talked to Armes, who was working at Newcastle during the time. A warrant for perjury may be issued at the request of the prosecution.

Mrs. Armes gave testimony tending to refute Alma's claim that she was about to become a mother.

MAKES SENSATIONAL DECLARATION IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS

By Associated Press
LONDON, Nov. 22.—"It is my opinion that it is impossible for a liberal government ever again to bear the heavy burden of office unless secured against a repetition of treatment such as many measures have been compelled to undergo in the last four years," was the sensational declaration of Lord Loreburn, lord high chancellor, in a debate on the budget in the house of lords today. It electrified the members of the commons in the gallery.

After Earl Crews formally moved for a second reading of the budget without comment, Lord Lansdowne moved its rejection. He said the house of commons had tacked on matters not germane to the budget. This was controverted by Lord Loreburn, who contended that there was nothing in the bill foreign to matters with which the commons has the exclusive right to deal.

Balloons USED AS TARGETS FOR U. S. ARTILLERY

By Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The first practice at repelling airship invaders was held today at Sandy Hook, where a captive balloon was sent up and a gun trained on it. Three big balloons will be used as targets later in the week. Shots will be fired but the tests are not open to the public. Tests in Germany demonstrated that regular artillery is useless against aerial craft, and as a consequence three new guns for the purpose have been invented there. The United States tests are for the purpose of inventing cannon for use against balloons.

The marines had been ordered to sail December 3, on the troop ship Prairie, which is now undergoing repairs. The rush orders from the navy department set the yard force to working day and night in order to complete the repairs a week earlier. With the troop ship Buffalo going from the Pacific coast and the Prairie from the Atlantic, the troops may be easily transferred from one coast to the other by the Panama railroad.

It is stated at the navy department that no orders have been given for a battleship to proceed to Nicaragua owing to the shallow waters along the Atlantic coast.

VEGAS SETS PACE FOR ALL NEVADA

Interest that is being aroused throughout southern Nevada by the discovery of artesian water in the valley in which Las Vegas is located, is but a response to a movement that is very general over the state at the present time to put much of the arid, but fertile lands of the desert to some practical use. Water is the key that will unlock the wealth of the soil, and it is coming to be a recognized fact that in many places in the desert, where there are no signs of water, are plentiful subterranean streams and reservoirs that may be tapped to the enrichment of the tiller of the soil, and incidentally to the material improvement of economic conditions of the state.—Searchlight Bulletin.
